Cambridge Partners Communities Designed Just for You!

A Few Words From Ron...

Every August we hold Resident Appreciation Week to show our appreciation to you as residents. It's our chance to continue to go above and beyond your expectations. There aren't any other apartment communities like ours in the area that have everything we have as far as amenities, activities and community involvement. We are one of a kind and we are all thankful for that and are glad you chose to live here! See details below for the week and I hope to see everyone participating! It's a great way for new residents to meet neighbors!

August is also the month were we hold Employee Appreciation Week to all staff members of Cambridge Partners. We have an awesome team of terrific individuals that are new to the company as well as old. I would like to take this opportunity to thank them for all of the hard work they have put in this year!

I hope to see you next week!

Bed Bug Control and Prevention

How to protect yourself and your family from Bed Bugs

Isolate the bed. Pull the bed away from walls and furniture. Make sure drapes don't touch it.

Encase the mattress and box spring. The mattress and the box spring especially can be difficult to treat if they become infested. If they already are infested, isolating the bed isn't going to help you unless you use bed bug encasements. And if the mattress and box spring are not infested, leaving them unprotected is a bad idea.

Launder all the bedding & clothes on the highest heat settings. Laundering on the highest heat settings is a well known, proven and accepted method of killing bed bugs on your bedding. Wash everything to start with a clean slate.

Line drawers with bed bug proof bags. Bed bugs don't just hide in beds -- they also hide in other nearby places. Not only do they crawl around rooms and buildings, they can hitchhike on clothing and accessories. You want to keep your clothing isolated then, protected from being infested on one hand and sealed to prevent bed bugs that might be in your clothes from spreading.
